Discuss Teacher Recruiting Ideas

Whether or not the Carmel Unified School District should place more emphasis on recruiting teachers from the top five percent of students graduating from college each year was the question Superintendent Dr. Harris Taylor asked the board of education to consider last night. He stated that teachers for the Carmel system, in the past, mainly have been hired from the "drop-in trade" — they have come to the district seeking employment. Average age of the district's teaching staff is 40 years.

He was doubtful that the starting salary for teachers out of college, $5,600 a year, was high enough to attract top graduates. Competition for this group is keen and salaries higher in many districts. (Salinas this week raised its starting salary to $6,000).

However, if an education program is strong, a graduate in the highest bracket may be willing to sacrifice pay for the opportunity to work in a challenging school system, he observed. Such a recruitment program would be expensive, he added.

Secondly, Harris suggested the possibility of recruiting, in other districts well established teachers of unusual quality, maybe one a year or every other year, as replacements in the Carmel school system.

Consensus of expressed opinions of school board members was that while it would be desirable to recruit excellent young teachers, also superior teachers, at this time no large sum of money can be spent for administrative personnel to undertake any extensive recruitment program. Next month, Taylor will interview two graduate doctoral students at Columbia University for a possible key administrative position in the Carmel district. The board is financing his traveling expenses which, Taylor estimated last night, would not exceed $300.

WILSDON FILES FOR SCHOOL BOARD

Richard T. Wilsdon, on Monday, was the fourth candidate to file for election to the board of education of the Carmel Unified School District on April 18. Two incumbents, Steven Sassoon and Dr. Hilton Bialek, are running for re-election. The fourth candidate is Mrs. Malcolm Jones. Mrs. Roxana Blanks will not seek another term.

Planners Recommend Five-Lot Annexation

Annexation to Carmel of five lots in the Mission Tract met with the approval of the Carmel Planning Commission yesterday afternoon and a report, recommending that the city council allow circulation of an annexation petition was adopted.

Reports from Carmel's fire and police chief showed that the addition of this property to the city would not create problems. However, Superintendent of Public Works William L. Askew in his report stated that the county still owns the southerly ten feet of the 60 foot right of way of Santa Lucia street on which the lots front. Carmel owns the other 50 feet of the street width. He added that, should Carmel ever bring Santa Lucia to grade on the south side, access to some garages from this street in the proposed annexation area might be eliminated. Drainage presented a problem also.

The five lots are on the south side of Santa Lucia, two on one side of Monte Verde, three on the other. The portion of Monte Verde bordered by the lots is included in the annexation.

The board accepted the resignation of Mrs. Elizabeth Maat, part-time teacher of mathematics at Carmel high school, for maternity reasons, and hired a replacement, Mrs. Katherine E. Collins, for the rest of the school year.

PHYSICIANS MEET IN CARMEL

The end of January means Doctors Week in Carmel. Again this year 900 physicians, many accompanied by their spouses, are here for meetings of the Western Society for Clinical Research, the American Federation of Clinical Research and the Western Association of Physicians. Some of the meetings are being held in Carmel's Village Theatre, others at Sunset Center.

Storm Damage Slight in Carmel

Carmel survived 80-knot winds, almost an inch of rain and city-wide power failure in the early morning hours of Tuesday with little damage, City Administrator Hugh Bayless reports. Another storm which hit the city Saturday postponed, for one day, play in the Crosby Pro-Am Tournament and kept Superintendent of Public Works William L. Askew and his crews busy clearing streets of fallen debris until after midnight.

During Tuesday's blow and downpour, Askew surveyed tree damage but had to wait until daylight to put his crews to work on a fallen city tree and numerous fallen branches. Citizens, too, on Tuesday took care of fallen trees and limbs on private property. The whine of power saws was heard all day and continued through yesterday.

The city tree fell on a house at Mission and Third and a limb of a city cypress fell in the driveway of another home at San Antonio and Seventh. Another large cypress limb fell on the home of Planning Commissioner Barney Laiolo. The wind whipped branches off cypresses onto the roadway along Scenic Drive and off pines and other trees onto other streets.

The power failure which occurred at the height of Tuesday's storm kept Carmel's city hall without telephone service until 10:30 a.m. The Carmel Fire Department received numerous calls all through the night from persons reporting storm damage and seeking aid. Only one was from a Carmel citizen. The others originated outside the city limits in Pebble Beach, Carmel Point and Carmel Woods and could not be handled by the city.

The power failure caused early dismissal of classes Tuesday at Carmel Middle School. Power service was restored to Carmel High School as classes started at 8:15 a.m. Clocks were then advanced from the time of the failure to the right time and the heating system in the old part of the school began to work. By noon this section of the facility had normal heat. In newer sections of the school, radiant heat panels in the floors retained sufficient heat to keep temperatures comfortable. Only one teacher was late for classes, but a number of students were tardy as the result of stopped electric clocks and other results of the storm.

Ansel Adams Request Considerably Brightens Future Of Sunset Center

The future of Carmel's cultural and community center was brightened Monday night when famed photographer Ansel Adams, president of Friends of Photography, gained Sunset Commission approval for this recently organized non-profit group to operate a creative photography center in the former library and an adjacent room at Sunset Center.

Adams told the commission Friends of Photography is being incorporated legally. The group has directors and elected officers. Furthering the cause of photography is the prime purpose of the organization which plans to exhibit works of great creative photographers of the United States and other nations in the former library and use the other room to house a photography library and permanent collection of prints. The undertaking will be similar to George Eastman House in Rochester, New York, he commented.

Some of the greatest names in American photography are associated with the Carmel area, Adams pointed out and named as outstanding, in this respect, the late Edward Weston.

Rosario Mazzeo, secretary treasurer of the Friends of Photography and former personnel manager of the Boston Symphony, added more brightness to Sunset's future when he stated that Sunset Center auditorium is, acoustically, "a very good hall" and recommended only a simple, movable stage shell to improve sound projection.

Then Brooks Clement, representing the board of directors of the Carmel Bach Festival, enhanced the glow when he said that the festival, also the Carmel Music Society and Monterey County Symphony Association will meet to discuss an expandable acoustical shell, if such an acquisition is recommended following the visit here of an expert from the University of California at Los Angeles arranged by the festival's musical director, Sandor Salgo, at no cost to the festival or the city. Clements indicated that the three musical organizations and donors may "pay the greater cost of the shell."

Sunset Center Manager Cole Weston contributed lustre, too. He gained the commission's approval of plans for Sunset Center exterior landscaping and lighting as presented in sketches prepared by Marlinde von Ruhs, a local artist. These showed a garden area bordering San Carlos Street, two new bulletin boards, and nine Town and Country standards, such as the city street lights on Dolores, distributed about the Sunset site.

The sketches and the photography center application, the latter accompanied by a $2,100 certified check for one year's rent, were referred to the city council for final action.

But there was more burnishment of Sunset Center's future. The commission learned that Herbert Heron, founder of the Forest Theater and a former Mayor of Carmel, had offered to the city his entire collection of books by authors associated with Carmel, also other Carmel memorabilia, on condition that an historical museum is provided. After being informed Heron's offer was accepted last week by the Carmel Arts Commission, Sunset commissioners proposed, for consideration by the arts commission, the east Sunset bungalow, or two rooms in the main structure, for the museum.

Referred to the Sunset Commission's committeee on administration for study and report were requests for rooms at Sunset to be used as studios by Marlinde von Ruhs, Peninsula Performing Arts and Mary Burr Anthony.

The commission approved new steam valves for radiators ($150); new toilet seats for all restrooms ($150); a new silent toilet, also a handbasin, for the men's restroom off the auditorium ($150). Weston's progress report to the commission showed improvement work has been completed throughout the facility and more is underway.

Lecture Demonstration On Atomic Energy At High School On Monday

A demonstration lecture, sponsored by the Atomic Energy Commission, on atomic energy and its uses will be presented at Carmel High School on Monday.

The program, titled "This Atomic World," is designed to acquaint students with the basic principles of nuclear energy, its sources and role in industry, agriculture and medicine.

Robert Nestor will present the assembly program which will include the structure of atoms, radiation, reactors, and fusion. He has completed extensive training at the Oak Ridge, Tennessee, facilities of the Atomic Energy Commission and is a graduate of Bowling Green State University with a bachelor of science degree.

Specially designed electronic equipment is used during the 40-minute program to show such things as sources of radiation, how nuclear energy is harnessed, to furnish electric power for cities, the use of radioisotopes to aid in diagnosis and treatment of diseases, and to learn more about life processes.

A blackboard talk to science classes, which deals more specifically with such topics as atomic structure, radioactivity, radiation biology, and careers in nuclear science will follow the assembly.

White Oaks Theatre Needs More Money

Money pledged to support White Oaks Theatre since the drive was started to save the Carmel Valley playhouse on January 7, now totals $10,560. Although this allows the theatre to remain alive, its program has been forced to be limited until such time as the theatre's financial picture brightens considerably. During the next few months, foundations which have expressed an interest in the White Oaks operation will be contacted, and the theatre will expand its touring elements while fulfilling bookings already committed.

By February, five productions will be available for booking by educational institutions, service organizations, and other interested groups in Monterey County and throughout California. To accomplish this, some staff and company members were released, some took a cut in salary, and others shifted their field of emphasis.

It is the hope of the board of directors that White Oaks Theatre can soon operate fully again, both as a theatre offering an internship program for many talented young people interested in a career in theatre, especially musical theatre, and as a source of a variety of live entertainment for the community. However, to do this, additional funds are needed from individuals, corporations, and foundations.

Next Studio Play

An exciting mystery-comedy, "Catch Me If You Can," will follow "A Funny Thing Happened On The Way To The Forum" at the Studio Theatre-Restaurant. Opening February 3, the new production will play Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights to mid-March.

The fast pace of "Catch Me If You Can" starts with the first scene. A man summons the police to investigate the sudden disappearance of his new bride from the isolated mountain lodge where they are honeymooning. A pretty girl arrives who claims to be the missing wife despite the man's violent protests that he has never seen her before. A priest supports her story. A detective tries to determine who is perpetrating a fraud. Two murders are committed and the audience is kept on tenterhooks until all is resolved at the final curtain.

Adapted by Jack Weinstock and Willie Gilbert from a play by Robert Thomas, "Catch Me If You Can" drew praise from the New York critics for its suspense, its double surprise ending and its literate comedy. The Studio management predicts that mystery fans will class it with "The Mousetrap" which ran so long in New York and London.

The local production is under the direction of Michael Keller with setting and lighting by Bob Evans, Jr.

LINES FROM THE STUDIO

Now that "A Funny Thing" has only this weekend to go, we'll confess it was reckless to undertake the costliest show in our brief history as producers right in the middle of winter when they told us we'd lose our shirts. To tell the truth, we had our anxious moments until the sold-out houses of the past few weeks got us over the hump. Now we wish we could run longer, but Sunday is closing night. We're solaced by looking forward to February 3 when we open an exciting mystery-comedy, "Catch Me If You Can," with a double surprise ending that will leave even shrewd whodunit fans gasping in their seats. If you thought "The Mousetrap" was good, this is great! Dinner and show back to $5.50, show alone $2.75.

He birdied holes 12, 13, 14, 16 and 17 to wind up with a total of 284 and $16,000 in first prize money.

Bill Casper finished second with a total of 289, five shots off the pace, and picked up $9,600 in prize money. Arnold Palmer finished third despite a 9 on the par five 14th after knocking two balls out of bounds.

Mike Souchak and his brother, Frank, won the Pro-Amateur division by finishing 29 under par. Mike picked up $2,700 for his efforts and his brother Frank received a trophy.

Rives McBee, golf professional from Midland, Texas, won the Little Crosby Golf Tournament at Salinas Golf and Country Club. He had two straight rounds of 67 to win low pro honors by three strokes.

"CASUAL WATER?"

REPORTS FROM RLS

By Chandler Meloy

This Spring the school will field its largest sports delegation in history with full-sized teams in baseball, swimming, track, tennis and golf, plus smaller squads in riding and shooting. But in the Winter, everybody concentrates on basketball and the "sport" of speaking. For practical reasons this is the "indoor" season.

The basketball teams faced their toughest week as they took on four teams in eight days, with the varsity dropping games to Palma and Junipero while defeating Pescadero and Monte Vista. The Junipero game was a heartbreaker for the locals as they came within two points of breaking a six-game jinx against the local Catholic school. The Pescadero game saw Stevenson sink 67 points, high for the year, as John Cann and Mike Greene went on a scoring binge in that game. Both Pete Schreiter and team captain Pete Stremmel have been showing great strength on the boards, while the remaining starter, Pat Rauber, has been playing a consistently fine game to steady the team. This only leaves five games for the season before the C.A.A. tournament on February 23-25. The last home game of the year at the RLS gym is February 20 against Mora.

The other active team during this season is the Speech Team, a non-contact "sport" with plenty of competition. Last Saturday the team, with a few observers, went to Soquel for a regular P.F.L. tournament. Of the 25 regular team members, 24 went on to semifinals, with 14 gaining the finals. Five other boys, plus team manager Steve Gardner and Robbie Ford, accompanied the squad.

Outstanding for the day was Joel Harris, who has been knocking on the finals door of many tournaments, and came through this time with a fifth in Oratory and Impromptu. Oratory was a new event for Joel. Other double winners for the day were Student Body President Larry Kuechler with a third in Impromptu and a fourth in Extempt; Joe Arsenio with a fourth in Impromptu and a fifth in Extempt.

Outstanding performances were turned in by Don Stillwell with a second in Oratory, Jim Russell with a second in dramatic Interp and Smith Dungan, a second in his speciality, Impromptu.

Radio finals saw Jim Henderson, Claude Wynn, Don Hicok and Pete Cowden take third to sixth. Pete Schreiter finished for a tie (fifth) in Extempt. Of seven events entered (there are four additional events for girls only) Stevenson dominated three of them and placed highly in the other two. The team took a third in sweepstakes against squads with boys and girls numbering above 50 members.

DATES TO KEEP OPEN

March 11: Carnival, Bazaar and Auction (all day starting at 10 a.m.).

February 13: Pomona Glee Club.

Tonight: Catholic Seminar: 3rd in a series on "Vatican Two," with Sister Francis Loretto, in the Chapel.

Coming: News of the ski team and the student leadership conference.

Town House

Starting February 6 there will be a class at Town House in hat making at 10 a.m. Mrs. DeVlaminck is the teacher.

On February 7, a physical fitness class will be conducted by Mrs. Bea Wayland. This class will be from 10 a.m. till noon.

On February 8, Madame Malabre will conduct a class in French from 10 a.m. till noon.

HACIENDA CARMEL

Recently returned from a two-month trip to South America are the Alfred Hansens of Hacienda Carmel. The Hansens drove to New Orleans where they embarked on a steamship and air cruise of some 47 days, touching most of the points of high interest on the South American continent. One of the big thrills for Al was a round of golf with a Buenos Aires friend on a course in that area. The Hansens came back to New Orleans by ship and then drove home by way of Houston and El Paso, Texas.

Residents of Hacienda Carmel have been intrigued and puzzled by the appearance of paper pie plates at various and sundry points throughout the complex. Associated with the pie plates were a sober-faced surveyor, who painted white hieroglyphics here and there, and then, too, there were buzzing aircraft with aerial cameras. The mysteries were resolved when it became known that the activities are first steps in the program to bring sewers of the Carmel Sanitary District to Hacienda Carmel. It is expected that this big project will be in operation within the next 12 months.

CARMEL VALLEY MANOR

Booklets are being ordered for the participants in the Great Decisions group which will begin an eight-week series of world affairs discussion the week of February 5. Since so many have signed up for the series, the cost of booklets will only be $1.75 each.

It is still possible to become one of this group, the sign-up sheet is on the bulletin board. It should be emphasized that this is an open and friendly discussion engaging all participants. The leader's role is not one of enlarging on his or her views, but rather monitoring the discussion to draw out all participants and explore many points of view. Everyone interested will be notified of the time and place of an organization meeting at which leaders, meeting places and dates will be determined.

Plan May Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Karnow of Carmel recently announced the engagement of their daughter, Charlene Jan, to Michael Rion Hohler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth E. Hohler of Carmel Valley.

Charlene is a 1966 graduate of Carmel High School and is now attending Monterey Peninsula College. She is the sister of Mrs. Ronald Smith of Los Angeles, Charles M. Karnow of Pacific Grove and Gerald Karnow of Rancho Crodova. Mrs. Lorenzo Myler of Inglewood is her grandmother.

Michael, who is a 1964 graduate of Carmel High School, is stationed at Edwards Air Force Base with the U. S. Air Force. He is the brother of Valerie, Steven, Kenneth and Angenette Hohler of Carmel Valley. Mr. and Mrs. George J. Addison and Mrs. Ernest Hohler of Carmel Valley are his grandparents.

A May wedding is planned by the happy couple.

ARTIST DISPLAYS WORK

Mrs. James E. Henderson, right, admires one of the colorful trays exhibited by Ruth Buol, a Carmel artist who was the speaker for the Officers Wives' Club coffee given by 4th Brigade wives, and featuring an Italian motif, on January 10 at the Fort Ord officers club.

Photographs Carmel Celebrity

Photographer Jim Marshall of San Francisco was in Carmel recently taking pictures of Dr. Eric Berne for a forthcoming issue of West, magazine supplement of the Los Angeles Times. The Carmel psychiatrist and author of "Games People Play," was photographed enjoying a sunny Sunday on the beach below Reamer's Point.

Horans Are Returning

Carmel will soon be home again for Laurence Horan, Peace Corps director in Colombia, his wife and the couple's five children. Mr. Horan, who was also with the corps in Costa Rica, was here briefly en route to Washington D.C. on official business. After a trip to Colombia to "collect" his family, he will resume practice with his Carmel law firm — Farr, Horan, Wilsdon and Lloyd.

Fugitives From Winter

George and Ann Chapman, here from Cleveland, Ohio, on their annual visit with Ann's mother, Mrs. Paul Whitman of Pebble Beach, have been particularly grateful for the Peninsula's balmy weather in view of Midwestern thermometer readings. The Cleveland couple will occupy the new guest house near Mrs. Whitman's home and the 17th fairway until the end of the month.

Ann, whose brothers, Colden and Paul "Butch" Whitman, are local residents, grew up in this area and still has many friends here.

Artists Back From Mexico

Cartoonist Gus Arriola and his wife, Frances, artist Leslie Emery and Mrs. Emery and another Carmel painter, Fred Klepich, all with "the dust of Mexico on their hearts," have teamed up more than once for travel in that country. Fascinated with the present as well as the past of Mexico, particularly the reflection of ancient cultures found in its ruins and artifacts, the entire group is versed in the country's history and language. In fact, in the provinces, Gus and Fred, once tanned by the sun, are often mistaken for natives by natives, who assume them to be city slickers, perhaps, from "la Capital."

The itinerary of their last trip, from which they recently returned, would rival the most complicated road map in existence. Starting off together, they flew to Mexico City to spend ten days there and in nearby towns, then on to Oaxaca for Christmas. They then separated to remeet at New Year's in the same city.

While Fred Klepich was having a marvelous time in Tehuantepec and Salina Cruz, the Arriolas were exploring Vera Cruz and the Emerys were enjoying San Miguel de Allende and Guanajuato, among other places.

A wealth of new work by these three Carmel artists should be forthcoming, aided by the visual and spiritual experiences stored up during the month in Mexico.

Top Chess Player

John Parkhurst, son of Mrs. George R. (Margaret) Beck of Hatton Fields, took a sixth place in the main "G" section of the 42nd annual International Chess Congress held at Hastings, England. He was the sole entrant from the United States, competing against more than 200 players from all over the world. John, whose interest in the game dates back only about five years, competed last September in the U.S. Open tournament in Seattle, Washington. He was one of the founders of the Monterey Chess Club.

John attended Carmel elementary schools and, before an urge to travel took him to Europe in September of last year, was enrolled at Monterey Peninsula College. Now headed for Greece, he has visited Belgium, Spain and Morocco, among other countries, usually taking advantage of the youth hostels which make travel possible for so many young people with limited funds. These he thoroughly enjoyed, according to his mother, who expects him home sometime before Spring.

Peggy Short Returns

Since last Saturday, friends of Mrs. John Short have been welcoming her back to the Peninsula. For the past several years, Peggy and her husband and their children, Manda, Lenci and Jody, have been living in the British Isles. First their home was in Scotland while John studied at Edinburgh University, then they moved to England while he continued his studies at Linacre College, Oxford University.

Jody returned to this country to enter Robert Louis Stevenson School last Fall. Manda and Lenci accompanied their mother home and Manda plans to study at Monterey Peninsula College. Mrs. Short will have the family's home in Inverness ready for John when he comes back early next month after completing examinations for a B. Litt. degree from Oxford. He also plans a stay in New York before coming to California. Mrs. Short and the girls have been guests of Mrs. Marie Gragg in Monterey since their arrival. On Sunday evening, Mrs. Gragg invited a group of Mrs. Short's friends to her home to welcome the returned travelers.

Kathy Burkett Honored

Katherine Burkett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Burkett of Pebble Beach, and a graduate of Carmel High School, was recently honored at Pine Manor Junior College in Chestnut Hill, Massachusetts.

Katherine was one of 18 seniors to be chosen by the faculty and administration to participate on the basis of character in the traditional Candle-lighting Service observed each December at the school.

Sierra Club To See Glen Canyon Film

At this evening's meeting of the conservation committee of the Ventana Chapter of the Sierra Club, the feature will be the showing of the spectacular Glen Canyon film.

Glen Canyon used to be a beautiful, multicolored, cliffsided gorge with a swift turbulent river at the bottom. Today, the Glen Canyon dam has created a variable level lake which partially fills the canyon.

The Glen Canyon film gives a poignant comparison of what the canyon once was and what it now is.

The showing of this 30-minute film will be followed by discussion of local and national conservation matters.

The meeting will be at 7:30 p.m., in the music room at Carmel High School.

The public is invited.

CHILKAT INDIANS MEET USS YUKON STAR IN HAINES, ALASKA

One of the many opportunities for vacation adventure offered by Dick Phinney Tours and Travel is Alaska, through Westours, leading tour operator of this area for over 20 years. The lure of this fabulous 49th State grows each year. There are now more ways than ever to reach this paradise. One can fly. One can take a motor coach. One can take a cruise ship.

Of all the means of transportation, the most popular is still the spectacular cruise via the beautiful Inside Passage. Aboard one of Alaska Cruise Lines majestic steamers, travelers glide over 1,000 miles of smooth, sheltered seas from Vancouver, B. C. to Skagway, Alaska.

The Passage is truly a spellbinding waterway, and the cruise ship is never out of sight of land. Passengers thrill to the panorama of lush forests, green mountains, tumbling waterfalls, silently-moving glaciers, and picturesque Alaskan settlements.

Another method of travel is by way of Alaska Highway Tours de luxe Scenerama Highway Cruiser, with wide view windows, individual aircraft-type seats, air conditioning, and complete washroom facilities. The best hotels are provided at each point and include the famed Empress in Victoria, the celebrated Chateau Lake Louise and the castle-like Banff Springs Hotel. Travel through the famed Inside Passage along the British Columbia Coast is aboard the new Queen Of Prince Rupert. A berth in a comfortable stateroom is provided aboard the ferry. It is said that there are no better vantage points for viewing the fantastic scenery of British Columbia and the Canadian Rockies than from the highways and waterways on which these itineraries operate.

For information and free brochure contact Dick Phinney Tours and Travel at either of their three locations: Carmel—opposite Dolores Street entrance to Post Office; Monterey — in the Casa Munras Hotel Shops; Salinas — opposite Salinas Valley Savings. Make bookings early—make them now—recommends Dick Phinney.

Grace Flanders

Mrs. Grace Johnson Flanders, a resident of Carmel for the past 45 years, died last Friday in her home, Outland, on Hatton Road. She had been in ill health for some time which caused semi-retirement from her many cultural and philanthropic interests in late years.

A supporter of the Carmel Music Society from the time of its founding, Mrs. Flanders, was the society's secretary-treasurer, also was a board member, for many years. She also lent her lively intellect to aid local little theatre and art groups.

Grace Flanders maintained her scholarly interests in many subjects throughout her life and had a keen appreciation of her friends.

Mrs. Flanders was born July 24, 1881, in St. Paul, Minnesota, and attended the University of Chicago. She was active with the Provincetown Players when the late Rollo Peters was a part of this group.

Her first marriage was to the late Professor Burton Livingston of Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, Maryland. She became a friend of the late Dr. D. T. MacDougal when Dr. Livingston was associated with Dr. MacDougal at the Desert Laboratory of the Carnegie Institution in Tucson, Arizona, and visited Dr. MacDougal in Carmel after he was appointed director of the Carnegie Coastal Laboratory here in 1910.

Her marriage to Paul Aiken Flanders took place in New York. The couple came to Carmel in 1922 and built their spacious home, Outland, in 1924, on the slope of Flanders Canyon looking towards the Mission and Point Lobos, acreage they had seen and loved when in Carmel before.

Grace and Paul Flanders' only son, Barnett, died as a child in 1933. During World War II, Paul Flanders, served as a captain in the U. S. Navy and died unexpectedly, in 1944, in Washington D. C. where he was in charge of mine sweepers.

Surviving Mrs. Flanders are four sisters, Mrs. Jessel Whyte of Kenosha, Wisconsin, Mrs. Elbert Clark of Winnetka, Illinois, Mrs. Warner Kent of Scarsdale New York, and Mrs. E. H. Ahrens of Bronxville, New York; a stepdaughter, Mrs. Steve Plunkett of Santa Monica; and many nieces and nephews.

Howard Johnson of St. Paul, Minnesota, Mrs. Flanders' only brother and a frequent Carmel visitor, died in 1957. His widow, Yodee, has come each winter since to visit her sister-in-law in Carmel and was here at the time Mrs. Flanders died.

Private burial services were held last Friday afternoon at Cementerio El Encinal. Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Mimi Colliard

Mrs. Mimi M. Colliard, a resident of Carmel for the past 20 years, died Friday in a local hospital following a short illness. A native of Gainesville, Texas, she was born October 11, 1900.

Mrs. Colliard was known to many residents of Carmel as a talented portrait painter. The wife of Fernand (Fred) H. Colliard she made her home at Junipero Street and Twelfth Avenue.

In addition to her husband, Mrs. Colliard leaves a sister, Mrs. Everett Baker Neff, and two nephews, all of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma.

Private family services were held in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea. The Paul Mortuary was in charge of the arrangements.

Michael Thompson

Michael Cole Thompson, 22-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Thompson of Ocean Avenue and Carpenter Street, died suddenly early Saturday morning. He was taken ill at his home and rushed to the Community Hospital by his parents but was pronounced dead upon arrival.

Michael was born on March 10, 1965, in Carmel and leaves a sister, Heather Thompson of Carmel; his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne G. Hendrickson of Santa Barbara and his paternal grandfather, John M. Thompson of Carmel.

Private family services were held on Monday in the Little-Chapel-by-the-Sea. The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

When we look into the long avenue of the future and see the good there is for each one of us to do, we realize after all what a beautiful thing it is to work, and to live, and to be happy.

Owner,
Carmel Pine Cone

Thank you for acknowledging the Birth of Christ on the cover of your Christmas issue. The linoleum cut by Pat Cunningham is beautiful but you might have commissioned some artist to do a new one for this year.

Inside the Pine Cone I found a few articles struggling for space in an encroaching sea of ads. I know that you have to sell ads in order to run your paper at a profit, but you have to give as well as receive. Carmel is an unusual community and the Pine Cone used to reflect the unique spirit of the town. Some rather famous writers have, in the past, contributed to the paper. Might I suggest that for the Christmas issue you could ask for contributions as there are a number of writers resident in the area who are very good at putting words together to express their feelings about the season. A small paper can be a special voice for the human spirit. Unless you want to turn the Pine Cone into a throwaway, its eventual success will depend on content not advertising.

Sincerely yours,
Sam B. Colburn

Owner,
Carmel Pine Cone

To be sure, reflections of the Carmel community, as expressed within the pages of your extraordinary newspaper, the Carmel Pine Cone, are, to say the least, eye-opening. You folks are refreshingly different down there. How can you afford to do without so many of the services others take for granted? I'm quite sure doing without is not a matter of economy. Somehow or other, the spirit of foregoing is still rampant within Carmel.

Yours is a very "convenient" paper to read. The format is "right." Type and size of print are excellent. There are other newspapers, considerably larger, that are as considerably "less illumined."

Anyway, I say Carmel is a real quaint town and I like it. So keep civilization at halfmast, or at worst, at bay until I get there.

Steve Bugar
Portland, Oregon

Editor,
Carmel Pine Cone

Since my husband and I are concerned and interested property owners and residents of Carmel, I offer the following open letter to all Carmel merchants it may concern:

Since the unique beauty of our village is featured through plantings at the entrances to our many shops, will you kindly make the following experiment?

As you open your place of business tomorrow morning, walk to the curb and look at your shop as a visitor or villager would do. How does that planter look to you? Is it fresh and tidy and inviting—or is it sad and neglected?

If it falls into the latter category, why not take advantage of this ideal planting season by bringing that planter back to life, for the joy of those who enter or pass your shop?

Your planter is to your place of business what a frame is to a picture. Show your shop with pride, and you shall be the benefactor!

From A Librarian's Notebook

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg, City Librarian

Some of you may like a small book by Richard Burton which is entitled MEETING MRS. JENKINS. He tells three incidents in his life before and after he married Elizabeth Taylor. Beautiful photographs of the subject, namely Elizabeth, who may be boring to some readers.

Another famous family was the Habsburgs, who ruled and made history for six centuries. The book was written by Dorothy Gies McGuigan, a name I can spell easier than pronounce, and the title of the book is THE HABSBURGS, which is natural enough. The author says that she was interested in the Habsburgs as human beings and thus aimed to tell their story as of men and women in a family of kings. Only so much history has been included as was needed to set the stage for their movements. Thus we have a human history set against a background of world history. This is a well written book, perhaps one of the important books of the year.

An anthology of prose and poetry written about and during the Renaissance was edited by Julian Mates and Eugene Cantelupe. This is a rich anthology and the subtitles of the sections give a good idea of the grouping. These subtitles are (1) the New Ordering of Political Science and History, (2) New Ordering of the Visual Arts, Music, and Literature, (3) New Ordering of the Sciences, and (4) New Ordering of Philosophy and Religion. The title of the book is RENAISSANCE CULTURE. If we must pick flaws in it, the illustrations are badly printed in black and white, when they should have been well done, and in color for the most part. Some of us will find much to criticize in heaven—if we ever make it there.

Your attention is called here to the fact that this library has three copies of the new biography of Admiral Raymond Spruance, a resident of this area we are proud to say. The biography was written by Vice Admiral E. P. Forrestel and it was published by the Government Printing Office in Washington, D. C. It is a very handsome book, illustrated with many photographs. One copy was presented to the library in memory of Mr. and Mrs. John Alexander, and this copy will be placed in the library's Carmel Collection to insure it's preservation for the future. The other two copies will be ready for circulation long before this piece appears in print.

"Painting and sculpture have ruined me. . . . It would have been better if in my youth I had hired myself out to make sulphur matches." So spake Michelangelo, the consummate artist of all time. THE WORLD OF MICHELANGELO is a beautiful but limited biography of the man and his works. Published by Life-Time, the illustrations are lovely. The pictures of the Pieta are beautiful belond words.

Those of you who enjoyed the motion picture "Those Daring Young Men In Their Flying Machines" will also enjoy the new book by Cecil Rosenberry which he called THE CHALLENGING SKIES, THE COLORFUL STORY OF AVIATION'S MOST EXCITING YEARS, 1919-1939. There are more than 300 illustrations, also tables and certain groups of information which should prove valuable, including short descriptions of certain famous planes important in the personal history of specific flyers. An example of this is the description of the Winnie Mae, the plane flown by Wiley Post.

There are over 40 new books this week. Certainly, you can find something interesting.

TONKIN TELLS ROTARY ABOUT SOUTH AMERICA

Thomas E. Tonkin, administrator of the Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula, talked to Carmel Rotary Club last week about his month in South America under a Walker Fellowship. He was instroduced by our local lumber baron, J. O. Handley. In general, Tonkin conveyed to Rotary men the impression that our good neighbors to the south are an area of extreme contrasts. Mostly there are undeveloped lands, primitive structures and lack of sanitation as opposed to occasional examples of very modern architecture and glittering military display. In most instances the people are more interested in just keeping alive than in evolving new medical practices and modernizing plumbing, he said.

PARTY PLANS . . .

By Phyllis Jervey

IN SEARCH OF HORS D'OEUVRES

On February 5, the exciting annual cocktail party to benefit the Heart Fund will again take place. This year it will be at the Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club. As usual there are two categories in the hors d'oeuvres contest—professional and amateur.

Miss Barbara Burdick is chairman of the amateur contributions and those wishing to enter this glamorous sweepstake may do so by telephoning her at 624-6896.

Mrs. Robert Stanton is in charge of the judges who will choose the winning hors d'oeuvres after considering presentation, appearance, endurance and taste.

The theme of the affair is Italian and decor is in the very talented hands of Barbara Tripp.

So that everyone won't bring antipasto, Party Plans, presents some tried and true hors d'oeuvre recipes which, with a bit of creativity, can be turned into imaginative and unusual offerings.

Clever Crescents
(Makes 40)

One tbsp. butter; ¼ cup finely chopped onion; ¾ lb. finely ground beef; 1 tsp. chopped parsley; 2 tbsp. finely chopped fresh raw mushrooms; salt and pepper and any herb or other seasoning to taste; 2 tubes prepared biscuits; canned milk.

Melt butter, add onion and brown lightly. Add remaining ingredients and simmer 10 minutes. Cut each biscuit in half before baking. Press each piece to make 3 inch squares. Put a teaspoon of filling in center and roll into small crescents. Place on greased cookie sheet. Cover with a cloth and let stand in warm place about 15 minutes. Brush crescents with canned evaporated milk and bake at 425 F. until cooked through and golden color.

Use your own ingenuity and invent various fillings, such as seafood, cheese, poultry mixed with chopped olives, raisings and mysterious seasonings. These are equally good served at room temperature which makes them a good choice for hors d'oeuvres that must stand and wait.

Twin Dips de Luxe

Crabmeat Dip: One (8 oz.) pkg. cream cheese; 1 (7½ oz.) can best crabmeat or equivalent in fresh crab; garlic powder, salt, white pepper and cayenne to taste; 2 tsps. minced onion; 6 stuffed olives, chopped; dry white wine.

Soften cheese; add all other ingredients excepting wine. Mix well. Use wine to thin to dipping consistency.

Blue Cheese Dip: One (8 oz.) pkg. cream cheese; 1 (6 oz.) pkg. blue cheese; Worcestershire sauce and Angostura bitters to taste; evaporated milk; chopped chives.

Mix until well blended. Sprinkle top with chopped chives. Serve in twin compartmented dish with assorted crackers.

Shrimp with Sweet and Sour Sauce

Make a tantalizing sweet and sour sauce with half and half mayonnaise and chili sauce. Season to taste with lemon juice and a dash of sugar. Have jumbo shrimps surrounding the dip.

Abalone Pupus

Cut canned or fresh pounded abalone into small squares. Spear with colorful picks or bamboo sticks and serve with both of the following sauces:

Chinese Hot Sauce: Half a cup cider vinegar; ½ cup water; ½ cup sugar; 1 tbsp. cornstarch; Tabasco or red liquid Chinese pepper to taste; soya sauce to color light brown. Cook on medium heat until sauce thickens slightly. Serve at room temperature.

Pineapple Sauce: 4 tbsp. sugar; 2 tbsps. cornstarch; 4 tbsps. pineapple juice; 4 tbsps. white vinegar. Heat in saucepan until sauce thickens. Garnish with pineapple chunks and Chinese parsley.

Curried Cheese Balls

Chop 1 tbsp. chutney very fine and mix well with 1 tbsp. butter and 1 tsp. curry powder. Mix with 1 (8 oz.) pkg. cream cheese. Form into small balls and roll in flaked coconut. Makes about 25 balls.

Stroganoff Dip
(Makes 4 cups)

One-fourth lb. fresh mushrooms, finely chopped; ½ cup chopped green onion; 1 garlic clove, minced; ¼ cup butter; ¾ lb. ground beef; 1 (10½ oz.) can condensed cream of mushroom soup; 2 tbsps. cornstarch; ½ cup red Burgundy wine; ¾ cup sour cream; salt, pepper, paprika and Accent to taste. Snipped parsley and chives for garnish. Assorted snack crackers.

Saute mushrooms, onion and garlic in butter. Stir in seasonings. Add meat, cook until it loses pinkness. Stir in undiluted soup. Blend cornstarch with Burgundy and add to meat mixture. Cook, stirring over medium heat until it thickens and begins to bubble. Cool and freeze. On day dip is to be served, thaw completely. Heat well, being careful not to burn, and stir in sour cream. Keep hot over alcohol lamp in chafing dish. Garnish with chopped parsley and chives. Serve with assorted snack crackers.

Low Calorie Cocktail Spread

One cup cottage cheese; 1 tbsp. onion juice. Blend in electric blender until thick and creamy, adding a small quantity of buttermilk as a starter. Refrigerate until firm. Add just before spreading; 1½ cups finely chopped fresh mushrooms; 1 tbsp. finely chopped parsley; salt and pepper to taste. Serve with melba toast rounds and spreaders.

AUDUBON DAY AT HIGH TWELVE

A capsule course in ornithology was presented to the Carmel High Twelve Club on January 16 by Captain Elgin B. Hurlburt of Pacific Grove, president of the Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society. The speaker developed his interest in birds and plants after retirement from the service. Recommending his hobby as a rewarding one that requires very little equipment, Captain Hulburt also supplied his audience with instructions for membership applications in conservation organizations.

"Birds have their riparian rights to water as much or more than human beings and these rights should be recognized by society," said Captain Hurlburt, "for if these natural rights are not validated, humanity will suffer a fate identical with extinct species of birds."

In giving the history of the Audubon Society, he covered many branches of conservation, outlining some of the measures taken to protect many wildlife species threatened by man today.

Captain Hurlburt, members were interested to learn is, one of the few experts in the propagation of wildflowers of this region. They also noted that his experience as a naturalist indicates that a concern in one phase of conservation leads ultimately to other fields of wildlife study.

BROWNING STORY FOR CARMEL WOMAN'S CLUB

The romantic story of Elizabeth Barrett and Robert Browning will be presented in three scenes by the young acting team of Richard and Jaclyn Dye-Carradine for the Carmel Woman's Club at an open meeting on Monday at 2 p.m. Called by critics "The platform's leading Drama Duo," the Dye-Carradines act in the costumes of the period to record one of history's most memorable romances. The program also includes some of the most poignant poetry and letters of both Elizabeth Barrett and Robert Browning.

The Dye-Carradines have appeared in numerous television, concert and stage productions. Among these was the Los Angeles television series, "Backstage with the Carradines." Critics have been unanimous in calling them two very talented, gracious and charming people.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

Congregations in Christian Science churches throughout the world will hear a Bible Lesson this Sunday on "Love."

Readings from I John will include the following: "If a man say, I love God, and hateth his brother, he is a liar: for he that loveth not his brother whom he hath seen, how can he love God whom he hath not seen? And this commandment have we from him, That he who loveth God love his brother also."

Related passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will include: "God gives the lesser idea of Himself for a link to the greater, and in return, the higher always protects the lower. The rich in spirit help the poor in one grand brotherhood, all having the same Principle, or Father; and blessed is that man who seeth his brother's need and supplieth it, seeking his own in another's good." WHAT DOES THE WINTER MARKET HOLD FOR YOU?

From one of the nation's largest and most respected research/analysis teams comes a special wrap-up report on the winter market. Available free, it presents keen analyses of major factors promising to influence your portfolio, including...

The President's State of the Union Message: You'll learn how it's prompting relaxation of high interest rates and tight money – why there is a substantial return of sophisticated investment funds into the market – and why this suggests the current advance is far less speculative than it originally appeared.

New European Foreign Policies: You'll learn how new German and French positions suggest a lessening of our balance of payment problem ...and an easing of pressure on our gold supply.

Hints of new attitudes on Vietnam: You'll learn what they are – and why peace would be the single most constructive market development in 1967.

You'll learn all this, and much more, with a free copy of our "The Realities of the Turnaround – Winter Market Policy." For your free copy, visit any Dean Witter office. Or simply complete and mail the coupon below...

The Complete Gardener

. . . a regular diet of information having to do with plants

Some plants are strange in their habits, such as those that bloom while they're sleeping. A few of our most popular ornamentals fall into this odd-ball class. Such favorites as camellias, the rhododendron family, and the citrus. All of these recognize the normal growing season for making new branches and foliage, but after most of the other plants have finished their blooming, this group starts opening its buds and showing its colors.

CAMELLIAS

Camellias start forming their bloom buds in the middle of the growing season. These buds swell as summer progresses and, if the plant receives an overabundance of nitrogen, there is a possibility that new growth will force the buds to drop off. Mid-September is usually the time to change the feeding of camellias from acid food to 0-10-10. . . . no nitrogen.

Right now you'll find camellias in full bloom at the nurseries, and this is the proper time to make a selection. First, you can see what the flower looks like and, second, the plants are dormant and ready to move. There are two important factors in the planting of camellias: the hole must drain well, and the plant should not be set deeper than it was in the nursery can. Dig a hole twice as large as the container you're buying and give the plant a thick bed of planting mix. Once the plant is set in the hole mulch the shallow feeder roots to the level of the soil mark on the trunk. Morning sun and afternoon shade is the best exposure, but this is better determined by your area. Locations with less summertime fog and hotter days will affect the well-being of these plants unless they are shaded and sprayed with water during the heat of the day. Keep the roots moist and cool.

RHODODENDRON FAMILY

Azaleas and rhododendrons require the same planting practice except that the former prefer more shade than camellias and the latter wants more sun. Two applications of acid food, one in April and one in May, are sufficient for these plants. During the dormant season, three or four helpings of 0-10-10 will benefit them greatly. Always mulch well to keep the roots moist and cool.

CITRUS GROUP

Now is also the perfect time to select citrus, when both bloom and fruit are growing on the tree. The selection is yours, but your choice should be governed by your location. Most citrus ask for a mild climate and, in any case, should be planted where they will get reflected heat and little wind. Soils are optional as long as the drainage is adequate. Bear in mind that more citrus is lost from improper watering than from any other cause. If leaves turn yellow, but the veins remain green, a mineral deficiency is indicated. To correct this use superferrite (Iron King) which contains zinc and manganese as well as iron. This is in granular form and is applied dry. Or sequestrene chelated iron can be used in water.

When citrus leaves turn completely yellow and drop off, the plant is getting too much water. Light, frequent waterings, such as often occur when the tree is situated in a lawn area, can cause rapid death. Container-grown citrus afford better water regulation. Watch the leaves. When they fold together at the center vein, drench the soil thoroughly. Do not confuse this condition with the curling of the leaves. If this occurs, the presence of an insect is indicated . . . an aphid or a mite. Spray the plant thoroughly with spectracide at the rate of one teaspoonful in a gallon of water. Feed with 0-10-10 monthly during the dormant season.

If we were asked to nominate the most popular citrus for home planting we would say, without qualification, the Meyer lemon. Whether planted in the open ground or in a container, the Meyer outperforms and outsells all others. It's a dwarf tree with fine fruit and lots of it. But don't stop there . . . get your nurseryman's recommendation on an orange, a lime, and a grapefruit, too. You may have a greener thumb than you think.

THINGS TO DO

Continuing with our January planting let us look forward to the abundance of cut flowers which are in store if we set out gladiolus bulbs. These are so easy to grow it's almost an insult to one's intelligence to lay down rules for culture. However, a few tips might help you achieve a greater measure of success. If you're in a windy area, mass the plantings so the stalks will protect each other. Stronger stalks and, in general, healthier plants will result when a supply of food is placed below the bulb at planting time. Bone meal is standard for this but a combination under the designation "bulb food" will provide more complete nourishment and is not as costly.

Also in January we should assess the amount of pruning to be done. All dead wood and excessive growth must be removed. Regular, light prunings every year are much easier on plants than is drastic surgery. The division of perennial roots can take place now. It's an easy operation with a sharp tool. Some plants can be pulled apart by hand, others must be cut. When transplanting these divisions it is well to use vitamin B-1 in the first watering, to ease the shock. A planting tablet in each hole will provide sufficient feeding for a year or two.

About hydrangeas . . . hold back pruning until all danger of frost is over, then remove old wood at the base. Coloring the bloom is a matter of changing the acidity of the soil. Blue flowers result from high acid conditions. Applications of aluminum sulphate, early in the growing season, will create a strong acidity, but this material is highly toxic to plants. Soil sulphur is safer, or superphosphate at root level. Red coloring will follow the use of a strong solution of iron sulphate. Weaker applications produce shades of pink. White blooms occur after the plant has been treated with agriculture lime. January is the time to start this program, and continue until the bloom buds form.

Next week is next month and we'll tell you how to discourage clover in your lawn.

Time To Pay Dues To Business Association

It is time to pay Carmel Business Association annual dues of $15. Kay Scott, secretary of the association, states that it works a hardship on the operation when members overlook paying their dues on time. She would appreciate this being given early consideration.

The Carmel Business Association contributes greatly to the welfare of the community in establishing a high standard of business ethics for Carmel businessmen. In Many ways it acts like a Better Business Bureau in negotiating settlements of differences arising between visitors and clients of the business people of Carmel. Other accomplishments during the last year include:

(1.) Distribution of 13,462 brochures plus the Hotel, Motel, Restaurant list and General Information Sheet.

(2.) Completion of a parking survey which is being coordinated with Carmel's planning commission. Member Robert Spencer has been appointed to assist Councilman William Sefton in this task.

(3.) Organization of four association meetings.

(4.) Familiarizing the business community with contemplated and new city ordinances.

(5.) Establishment of a permanent telephone number to call (624-2522).

Art News . . .

A one-man show of sculpture and painting by Traylor Dunwoody will be presented during February in the Beardsley Room at the Carmel Art Association galleries. This artist was born in Houston, Texas, in 1937. He began painting and sculpturing at an early age. While attending the Art Center School in Los Angeles, Dunwoody became interested in stage design. Later, while studying for a year at Amsterdam's Kunstnijverheid School, he was commissioned to do the stage design for a production of Eugene O'Neill's "Desire Under the Elms" at the Netherlands Opera Theatre. After returning to this country, Dunwoody worked for two years with Charles Luckman and Associates, a Los Angeles architectural firm, where he did exterior and interior designs.

Following further study and travel abroad, Traylor Dunwoody decided to settle in Carmel and concentrate solely on his sculpture and painting. He is a member of the Carmel Art Association and a director of this non-profit group. He also belongs to the membership of the Los Angeles Art Association and the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art Association of which he is a past board member.

AT LAKY GALLERIES

Artist Yeh-Jau Liu, contemporary Chinese artist, stands in front of one of his paintings in a one-man show now on exhibit at the Laky Galleries on San Carlos between Fifth and Sixth. He is a graduate of the National Academy of Fine Arts, Hangchow, China; an executive member of the Chinese Art Association; advisor of the Fu-Shing Opera School, Taiwan; and a professor at the National Taiwan Academy of Arts.

The fourth annual Religious Art Show sponsored by the Catholic Chapel Guild of the Naval Postgraduate School, opens Monday in the ballroom of the school and will run through February 12. Hours are to be noon till 9 p.m. daily.

Dooley Gallery in Carmel announces a six-week session of classes in oil painting to be instructed by Helen B. Dooley.

Miss Dooley, who has painted and exhibited in this area for many years, is currently on leave of absence from the University of the Pacific, where she is professor of art. She is a member of the Carmel Art Association, Society of Western Artists, and other organizations, and has exhibited in the National Academy Galleries in New York and the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts as well as many West Coast galleries. She is listed in Who's Who in American Art, Who's Who of American Women, and Index of American Scholars.

Her painting classes will start February 8 and will meet weekly through March 15. Registration is now open. Classes will be limited in size. Further information may be obtained from Dooley Gallery, San Carlos between Fifth and Sixth, through The Mall.

A "meet the artist" reception for Leon Amyx will be held in Dooley Gallery, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. tonight.

Amyx, well known California artist and head of the art department at Hartnell College, Salinas, is showing recent oils and watercolor paintings in a one-man exhibition at Dooley Gallery until February 3.

The public is invited to the reception and to the exhibition which is open from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays and from 2-4 p.m. Sundays.

The session on communications at the recent second annual conference of the California Art Education Association featured Charles Moody, special consultant, division of instruction, California State Department of Education. The former Carmel High School instructor, acts as liason between the state department of education and arts and humanities educational groups. He urged professional leaders in arts and humanities education, local school administrators and interested citizens to explore fully new solutions to problems currently associated with the teaching of the arts and humanities in public schools, also summer programs. Federal funds offer resources for the development of local leadership to pilot innovational instructional designs, he stressed.

PUMPING BRAKES

"Pumping" car brakes allows the wheels to roll and the driver to maintain steering control, points out the National Automobile Club.

The 5 days of the 26th Bing Crosby Golf Tournament actually meant months of preparatory work by the local office of Pacific Telephone.

In addition to the extra telephones and public phone booths that were necessary, television transmission lines had to be installed for the live coverage that this year for the first time was in beautiful color.

Placement of a mobile van atop Spyglass Hill allowed Pacific Telephone to chop 25 miles off its television transmission distance between the Monterey Peninsula and San Francisco, the nationwide distribution point.

This difference made color transmission possible this year instead of black and white.

In addition, live radio broadcasts were made from the tournament, and this also required special Pacific Telephone Company lines.

If you ever have any questions about making a Long Distance Call, whether you're going to dial direct or place the call through the Operator, you'll find helpful instructions in the front pages of your telephone book.

If a pay phone ever happens to keep your dime by mistake, I wish you'd let us know. We'd like to send it back. You may feel like hitting the phone, but all you have to do is dial "0" for Operator from another phone and tell her you've lost your money. She'll see that you get a refund in the mail. And if you'll give the operator the number of the phone that kept your dime, we can repair it quickly so it won't happen again.

Here's something we should all keep in mind: it's a good idea to familiarize yourself with the list of emergency numbers in the front pages of your phone book. If there's ever a crisis, you can save moments that matter by dialing these numbers yourself. However, if you can't dial the emergency number yourself, just dial "0" for Operator. And please remember to give your location and phone number—that's important.

Seattle Man Outlines Novel Plan For Raising Funds For Local Arts

by ELEANOR MELVIN

Paul S. Friedlander, Seattle businessman who is a graduate of Stanford University and Harvard Law School, outlined a dynamic plan for a large scale financial support of the arts at a meeting on January 9 at the Mark Thomas Inn attended by some 50 businessmen and leaders of art organizations.

Friedlander, member of the boards of the Seattle symphony and art museum, came here at his own expense, at the request of the Arts Coordinating Council of Monterey County, because he feels that, as a businessman, the most important contribution he can make to the arts is to share with other communities the ideas and experience he has gained in carrying out a uniquely successful annual fund raising project which has netted over three-quarters of a million dollars in Seattle over the past four years. He has helped start similarly successful projects in Cleveland, San Diego, Honolulu, Portland, Hartford and Vancouver, Canada.

While much depends on boldness and imagination in carrying out the project, one of the keys to success, Friedlander stated, is that it asks for services and merchandise rather than cash donations from the business community. Such services and merchandise are tax deductible at the selling price.

The articles donated are widely advertised and sold at auction to persons who attend one gala evening event. In Seattle this has become such a popular social affair that attendance has had to be limited to 800 couples to avoid confusion, leaving a waiting list of over 300. The cost was originally $150 per couple but in 1966 was raised to $200.

Friedlander recommended a charge of $100 per couple in this area. At least half of this amount, all of which would be tax deductible, would be returned to the purchaser in the form of script which can be used to start the bidding. Food and drinks would be provided throughout the evening and no entertainment would be needed since the excitement of bidding, also exchange of script and competition, would provide plenty of fun.

Secret of the Seattle event's success, he said, is the imaginative selection of items and services ranging from race horses, yachts, color TV sets and furniture to antique plates, original paintings, jewelry, a carload of lettuce, clothing and pedigreed pets. Friedlander said that statistics over the past four years show that prices paid average 93% of the retail price of the items.

In answer to many questions from the keenly interested audience, the speaker detailed methods of organization, procuring of gifts and successful management of the auction. He pointed out many ways in which the project could be uniquely adapted to this area. A strong, well organized and dedicated group of people with the support of many responsible committees would be needed and long term careful planning would be essential. However, once established as an annual prestige social event, the auction could raise a substantial amount in support of all the arts and become the most popular method of fund raising yet tried in this area. In addition to other committees to carry out its auction, Friedlander mentioned that Seattle has a carefully chosen beneficiary committee that rules on disposition of the receipts each year.

No decision regarding the promotion of any local auction plans was made at the meeting but much enthusiasm for the idea was apparent and Friedlander offered his further advisory assistance to the coordinating council or any other group which might decide to undertake such a project in the future.

Socialized Medicine Makes Many Britons Unhappy, Ricklefs Writes

An article by Roger Ricklefs in a December issue of the Wall Street Journal demonstrates that more and more Britons are forsaking the English government's "cradle to grave" welfare system in favor of private medical care and health insurance plans. Four million Britons, dissatisfied with the National Health Service, now use private medicine to some extent and the number is rising steadily, according to a British authority quoted in the story.

The writer of the article is the son of Robert U. Ricklefs, headmaster of Robert Louis Stevenson School in Pebble Beach. He came home for the recent holidays from London where he is a foreign correspondent for the newspaper which carried his article.

Ricklefs reported insurance men in Britain estimate two million British subjects subscribe to private health insurance plans, nearly double the figure of five years ago and over 15 times the 1950 level.

Ricklefs suggests that forward isn't the only way that socialism can creep, judging by British experience, and this situation may well have a bearing in the United States where Medicare is raising questions about the quality of government-provided medical care.

The dissatisfaction with socialized medicine, expressed by Britishers Ricklefs interviewed, centers around heavy work loads for physicians with resultant delays for examination of patients. Lengthy waits for non-emergency hospitalization adds to discontent.

One physician quoted stated that he left the National Health Service for private practice because, under NHS, he had to see 100 patients a day in his office as compared to 35 patients in private practice.

This heavy NHS work load resulted in ten or 15 minute physical examinations with consequent complaints about rushed treatment from patients.

The same doctor estimates he earns more money with 1,500 patients under his private health plan than he did with 3,000 NHS members. In private practice he charges a weekly fee of 35 cents for adults and 14 cents for children, plus 28 cents per office visit, 56 cents for a daytime home visit and $1.40 for home visits at night or on weekends. The average NHS general practitioner has 2,500 patients and earns $8,400 a year for treating them. In April, a rise to $11,200 is promised.

While private patients in Britain needing surgery can check into hospitals almost immediately, state NHS patients commonly wait six months or a year for non-emergency operations. Some wait six or seven years for hernia or varicose vein operations, Ricklefs' article states.

The above conditions have led many Britishers to abandon the free National Health Service in favor of paying for private medical treatment, also private health insurance plans.

A corollary to the rising interest in private medicine in the British Isles is a growth in private insurance for income protection during illness. There is also a rise in gifts to charity, Ricklef's article states.

COLOMBIAN LEGISLATOR GUEST OF CITY COUNCIL

A distinguished visitor from Colombia, Senor Jaime Bettancour, was entertained at luncheon by members of the Carmel City Council on Tuesday at the Hearthstone. Senor Bettancour is a city councilman and judge in his own city of Medellin, also a member of the national legislature of Colombia. He was invited by the state department to come to the United States to study this country's different types of local and city government.

Senor Bettancour told the Carmel council and other city leaders, including former Senator Fred Farr, how his own city government is run and offered many interesting comparisons between Colombia and what he has seen in this country. The main problem his country has, Senor Battencour stated, is the change-over from an almost complete agrarian economy to one where the main flow of population is turning to the cities.

Senor Bettancour's main goal when he came to Carmel was to attend a Carmel city council meeting but, unfortunately, none was being held during his brief stay.

Storm Damage

by Tuesday morning's wind. Lack of power Tuesday stopped production of the Pine Cone for three hours. As a result, several pages planned for today's issue could not be printed.

In addition to city crews, P.G.&E. employees worked to restore storm damage. By Tuesday afternoon, most citizens' heating, appliances and lights were restored to use.

The Carmel River was pouring muddy water into a still turbulent bay with breakers sweeping across the beach to the cliffs. Rangers from Pt. Lobos State Reserve dug out the river channel to the ocean in order to prevent flooding in the Mission Tract.

Recruiting Ideas

Mrs. Mary Clayton, school nurse, was granted a six-months leave of absence without pay to attend Fall semester advanced training courses at San Jose State College, provided a replacement with a school nurse credential can be found. Keith Lindberg was approved as a life drawing teacher in the Carmel Adult School art program. Four high school students who attended last summer's Project EDINN humanities program were granted a semester's credit. The request of Robert M. Freeman of Big Sur for in-lieu-of-transportation reimbursement for driving his children 2.75 miles to and from the nearest bus stop, cost $16.75 for the rest of the year, was approved.
